

Holy Day of Easter mixes legend and ritual

Legend has it a brave brown robin plucked a thorn from the forehead of Christ as he was being crucified on the cross. Christ's blood stained the little bird's breast red. Since then, all robins have had red breasts.

Another bird tried to lighten the martyr's suffering by calling: "Cheer up! Cheer up!" From that time the bird became known as the bird of consolation, the swallow.

Religion and ancient lore are closely and very beautifully intermingled in the various Valley traditional celebrations of Easter, the oldest of Christian high holidays.

The holiday that is still a celebration of Christ's resurrection, three days after his crucifixion and apparent death, is today the occasion for chocolate bunnies and colored eggs, churchgoing in new spring clothes, family gatherings and ham dinners.

In the Valley, the day began with a sunrise church service led by the Valley Covenant Ministry.

Easter comes early this year, but according to astronomers it could have arrived even a full week earlier in March. The first Nicene Council, in 325 A.D., set Easter as the first Sunday after the first full moon on or after March 21. The earliest possible date for Easter is March 22; latest, April 25.

For many thousands of years before Christianity, the spring equinox, signaling the beginning of the all-important planting season, was occasion for major festivals. Anglo-Saxon tribes held a festival every April in honor of the goddess Eostre, who represented sunlight and spring.

For present-day Christians, Easter climaxes the solemn 40-day season of Lent. During that time, the faithful give up some of their luxuries or amusements, fast, and contemplate Christ's suffering and death.

The lowly pretzel is an outgrowth of that season of deprivation. Christians in the Roman Empire were not allowed to enjoy fat, eggs and milk, so they mixed a dough of flour, salt and water only. They shaped it into the form of two arms crossed in prayer to remind them that Lent was a season of penance and devotion.

They called the breads "bracelle" (little arms). From the Latin word, the Germans later coined the word "brezel" or "pretzel," which became the English "pretzel."

The hot-cross bun, an Easter season "must," is pagan in origin. The Anglo-Saxons consumed the raisin cakes as part of the merrymaking that attended their spring festival.

The early missionaries from Rome despaired of breaking the pagans of their habit, and got around it by blessing the cakes and drawing a cross on them.

Eggs, a symbol of fertility and new life, have been used in designs and celebrations since ancient Egyptian and Persian times. The rabbit is said to be frail and dependent on the goodness of others, representing man, who placed his hope in Christ.

The custom of the "Easter Bunny" bringing children eggs and goodies is said to have gotten its start in Germany, where a poor woman dyed some eggs during a famine and hid them in a nest as an Easter gift for her children. Just as the children found the nest (so the story goes) a large rabbit scampered away.

From that charming beginning, the Easter Bunny has gone on to become such a commercial enterprise that, according to a recent news dispatch, department store bunnies in San Jose have filed sex discrimination charges. They're complaining that female bunnies get $2.10 an hour while male Santa Claus pulled down $3 an hour last Christmas.

"We have to wear this furry rabbit head and costume," one bunny is reported to have griped. "It gets hot and sweaty inside. We can't breathe, see or hear, and it's hard to talk."

Sweaty Easter bunnies notwithstanding, national statistics say the average American consumes some 19 pounds of sugar a year, nearly a pound of that at Eastertime as they enjoy the many confections of the season.

Much to the joy of merchants from ancient times to the present day, there is a superstition that a new garment worn at Easter means good luck throughout the year. New clothes at Easter also reflect the wearer's hopes for a fresh start as the springtime world of nature renews itself.

There is a new look to churches, too, as purple Lenten shrouds are pulled off statues in Catholic churches and banks of fragrant white lilies adorn the altars.

And throughout the religious realm, the old Biblical words are read again to tell the tale of the faithful Mary Magdalene, who stood weeping before Christ's tomb:

And seeth two angels in white sitting, the one at the head and the other at the feet, where the body of Jesus had lain.

And they say unto her, Woman, why weepest thou? She saith unto them, Because they have taken away my Lord, and I know not where they have laid him.

And when she had thus said, she turned herself back, and saw Jesus standing and knew not that it was Jesus.

New Town lambasted

An ABAG task force appointed to review Harlan Geldermann's proposed Las Positas New Town has turned out a blistering report that that is highly unfavorable to the project.

The five-member task force, composed of members of the Regional Planning Committee of the Association of Bay Area Governments, will present the report to the RPC at a Wednesday meeting. The ABAG executive board will review the RPC's recommendations on April 17.

The task force has concluded the proposed new community "is premature and substantially conflicts with regional policies."

In addition, the report finds, "Some of the problems identified with Las Positas are not unique to that proposal. Significant new development anywhere in the valley beyond that already committed by the existing cities should be reviewed according to the same criteria used in reviewing Las Positas."

The report also notes, "There are other places in the Bay Area with existing and underutilized capacity, with a need for better housing and more jobs, and without the unique serious environmental problems of the valley."

The report also finds "inadequate coordination of planning among all the government agencies servicing the valley" and believes the valley's public agencies should "commit themselves to a coordinated program consistent with regional policies for making decisions on the location, timing and magnitude of make developments and the public services they require."

The report lists eight major areas of conflict with regional policy. As described in the report, the proposal would:

✓ Aggravate air quality problems in an area where air quality poses a recognized health hazard.

✓ Unless a high level of wastewater treatment is provided, threaten the quality of the Livermore-Amador Valley's groundwaters and valleys in the lower Alameda Creek area used to serve Fremont, Newark and Union City.

✓ Require the creation of a new political or taxing body.

✓ Weaken the capability of existing communities to efficiently provide public services.

✓ Provide insufficient employment opportunities.

✓ Contribute to increased dependence on long home-to-work travel.

✓ Restrict housing choice for low- and moderate-income residents.

✓ Require the development of new public projects such as schools and health service facilities, duplicated unused capacity available in the older urbanized area of the region.

The task force recommends the RPC and ABAG Executive Board adopt findings and forward them to other public bodies which will be reviewing the project.

In order for the "inconsistency" with regional policy to be eliminated, the report states, six changes would have to take place in the valley. There would have to be "evidence that air and water quality standards required by Federal and State law can be achieved and maintained."

Greens at Las Positas will cost $5,000 to reconstruct

LIVERMORE — Virtually all the putting greens on the 18-hole Las Positas Golf Course need to be reconstructed at an estimated cost of $5,000 each, the Greens Committee, public works director and their special consultant have concluded.

The main problem is water drainage — or more correctly, the lack of it — on the greens due to their soil composition.

Golfers at the course that opened in 1966 adjacent to the Municipal Airport have been aware of the soggy green dilemma for many years.

Reconstruction of greens numbers 3, 13 and 10 are budgeted for the upcoming fiscal year, according to Public Works Director Dan Lee.

The golf course has been self-supporting this current fiscal year and is expected to be self-supporting during the upcoming one, said Lee.

It is hoped the greens can be reconstructed at the rate of three each fiscal year, although Greens Committee Chairman Jerry Atwell believes that about half the greens possibly could be used without further reconstruction.

Lee, Atwell and Bill Davis, a turf and landscape horticulturist at the University of California, Davis campus, acting as a consultant to the golf course, are reluctant to lay the blame for the soil composition and drainage problem at anyone's door.

It appears that the greens, built to United States Golf Association (USGA) specifications, simply do not work at Las Positas.

Due to the type of water used to irrigate the greens — reclaimed sewage effluent — and the type of traffic they receive — the course is played all year 'round — the soil has become compacted, preventing the water from seeping through the grass and into the underlying drainage system.

The greens were constructed from a prescribed mixture of sand, soil and organic matter. Reconstruction plans call for the removal of much of the soil mixture and the addition of sand.

"The greens mix...did not prove to accept the type of irrigation water which was available to the golf course rapidly enough," explained consultant Davis.

"As the greens matured and greater traffic was placed on the greens, they tended to become even poorer in their ability to take and move water through their profile," he said.

Davis also said the lab designing the soil mixture was not aware effluent water would be used to irrigate the greens.

"If they had known, they may have prescribed a different mixture," he noted.

According to Public Works Director Lee, the problem can be explained on the basis of advanced technology.

"Technology on greens construction has advanced since that time.... The knowledge of many subjects are rapidly changing.

"This is a case where at the beginning the consultants used what was then considered to be the most up-to-date standards.

"Davis University has done research on the subject and has come up with the design that is 100 per cent sand with a special gradation (size) of sand particles that will allow water to pass through.

"The old USGA specifications made a very tight soil and then the water wouldn't percolate through and you get a built-up of harmful elements in the root zone," Lee explained.

Principal switches likely in Pleasanton

PLEASANTON — There will likely be a switch in principal assignments at Pleasanton Elementary School District schools.

Superintendent Bruce Newlin said Friday that changes in assignments may be announced at the elementary district board meeting scheduled Wednesday, April 9 at the District Educational Center.

Newlin said part of his philosophy was to move principals to different schools every few years to enhance their perspective and provide them a change of scenery. Any changes would be effective in September.

Three of those with the longest tenures as elementary principals are Gene Vargas, Jim Scott and Ron Alsop. Vargas is presently at Fairlands but prior to Fairlands opening he was principal at Valley View for the better part of a decade.

Scott is presently at Alisal and Alsop at Pleasanton Elementary. John Bristow is principal at Valley View and Vintage Hills.

Two of those with the shortest tenure as principals in the district are Dale Hudson at Harvest Park and Anthony Huff at Walnut Grove.

No switch in assignments is expected at the high school level as two principals (Bob Hagler at Dublin and Don Landers at Foothill) are in their first year. A third, Ralph Laird, has been at Amador Valley for several years. Sam Ramey is principal at Valley High School, the continuation school for the district.

Newlin did not indicate any change in vice-principal assignments at any of the Pleasanton or Amador district schools.

The roster of elementary vice principals includes Del Warren, teaching vice principal at Alisal; Kay Bolles, teaching vice principal at Fairlands; Robert Tanghe, Harvest Park; David Cook, vice principal, and Ron Dell'Immagine, teaching vice principal, at Pleasanton Elementary; Hershell McCulley, teaching vice principal, Valley View; Phyllis Clark, teaching vice principal at Vintage Hills; Tom Ingham, teaching v-p at Walnut Grove.

The meeting April 9 will also see a reorganization of the board with a new president to be elected, and a salary and benefits presentation by the Pleasanton Certificated Employees Council.

Study session for councilman

PLEASANTON — The city council will hold a study session on the proposed $7.3 million budget at 8 p.m. Monday night.

Prior to that, at 7:30 p.m., the council is expected to review and adopt agreements governing its Housing and Community Development Act funds and Economic Development Act funds.

The agreement with Alameda County for allocation of the Housing and Community Development funds is a revision of an original agreement that the federal Housing and Urban Development (HUD) Department found unacceptable.

According to the revised agreement, the "county assumes the major responsibility for the entire plan" and the city does not have any veto power. "Notwithstanding the language of the agreement," however, City Manager Bill Edgar said in his report, "it is our understanding that no programs funded under new Housing and Community Development Act would be implemented in our city without our input and consent."

In addition, the city has been advised that in the event HUD disapproves of a project, it would be deleted from the county plan and the city would lose its money and not be able to substitute projects. Therefore, Edgar is advising the council to approve a back-up project guaranteed acceptable to HUD; namely, the purchase of land upon which replacement units for Komandorski Village would be built.

The council meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Pleasanton Justice Court.

Valley campus opens tomorrow

Chabot College's new $1.3 million Valley campus will officially open tomorrow at 9:30 a.m. before an audience of more than 200 civic dignitaries, school trustees, state community college leaders, and elected officials.

Registration ended yesterday with several hundred students signing up to take classes which start Tuesday. Dr. Barbara Mertes, dean of the new facility, remarked, "I am very pleased with the turn-out. I didn't really expect this many students."

The campus is set on a 147-acre site at 3033 Collier Canyon Road northwest of Livermore and will serve up to 500 students from the Dublin, Livermore, Pleasanton, and Sunol areas.

Dr. Reed Buffington, president of Chabot College in Hayward, attended Friday's first of late registration and with Dr. Mertes accepted two oriental paintings valued at $500 and a pictorial book on China entitled "Magnificent China" from Phillip Chin, owner of the Emperor's Garden restaurant in Livermore. The artifacts will be placed in the administrative offices of the campus.

Opening of the new campus climaxes more than 12 years of study and discussion by trustees of the South County Community College District. The need for a Valley campus was forecast as long ago as 1962 in a master plan study.

Four buildings comprise the campus, totaling 15,000 square feet of space. With the completion of a fifth building next September, the campus will be expanded to accommodate between 900 and 1000 students. The college will also hold evening classes in the facility.

The four buildings include a Learning Resource Center, Reading and Writing Laboratories, a Secretarial Science Laboratory, five classrooms each seating 50 students, a Science Center with laboratories for chemistry, biology, and physics, a turf area for physical education classes, and quarters for counselors and faculty members.

Students at the new Valley campus leave the admissions office to register for classes starting April

Ford approves huge tax cutback

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford signed into law a $24.8-billion tax-cut bill Saturday night, saying the drawbacks of the legislation are outweighed "by the urgent necessity of an anti-recession tax reduction right now."

Approval of the bill assures that about 72 million Americans will begin receiving 1974 tax rebate checks — ranging up to $200 — beginning in early May. It also assures 1975 tax reductions, which will show up in lower withholding taxes as early as May.

Ford announced the signing of the bill in a nationwide radio and television address, and said he is drawing the line for a 1976 budget deficit at $60 billion.

"This is as far as we dare to go," Ford said. "I will resist every attempt by the Congress to add another dollar to this deficit by new spending programs."

He said the only exceptions he would tolerate to new spending programs would be spending for "our long-range national security interests ... or urgent humanitarian needs." The remark about humanitarian needs was added to Ford's prepared text and was seen as a possible reference to increased spending for war-torn Cambodia and South Vietnam.

Sphere shows one city

The Local Agency Formation Commission has proposed one sphere of influence for the west end of the valley and one city within that sphere, obtained either by a merger of Pleasanton and Dublin or an annexation of Dublin by Pleasanton.

That report was presented to the LAFCO board Thursday and they scheduled a public hearing for May 22. Both Pleasanton City Manager Bill Edgar and Valley Community Services District General Manager Paul Ryan were present at the meeting but offered no testimony other than praising the staff for a "good report." Both indicated extensive comments would be prepared for the public hearing.

Edgar said he believed it "important that they (LAFCO staff) brought out the entire question" of one city. He noted the two communities have been plagued with problems of development and said the fact the "question" was out in the open again "will be a key to resolving those problems."

The sphere proposed by LAFCO, as shown in the accompanying photo, extends along Foothill Road on the west; extends north to the Contra Costa County line; on the east, it excludes East Bay Regional Park District land (north of Santa Rita), includes Santa Rita, extends down Tassajara Road along Interstate 580 to the joint boundary line with Livermore; and on the south, includes Shadow Cliffs Park, the Happy Valley area, down to Verona Road and Castlewood Country Club.

Job applicants get a break

LIVERMORE — Thanks to eight cooperative local governments and a computer system, job applicants now can fill out one form and be considered for hundreds of positions.

Participants in this new Shared Recruitment and Testing Project are the Cities of Livermore, Pleasanton, Alameda, Fremont, Hayward, Newark and Union City and Alameda County.

Applications now are being taken for clerical positions and maintenance and service worker jobs through the new program.

Applicants for these jobs — as well as for all others — fill out a comprehensive application, which replaces the traditional written test.

The applicant reports experience, skills, abilities and training as well as preferences. The application then is scored.

These scores and more than 100 other job-related items are stored in a computer system which serves as a skills bank. When a vacancy opens in any one of the eight participating governments, the employing agency reports the minimum qualifications and the important needs of the job to be filled.

Applicants with the highest scores matching the job requirements are then referred to the employer.

Clerk positions now accepting applications include jobs titled clerk; clerk-typist; account clerk; police and sheriff's clerk; receptionist; PBX operator; library aides; pages and clerks; stenographer, and secretary.

Maintenance and service series include airport service work; automotive equipment service and repair; animal control; building maintenance; child care, cooking and kitchen help; custodian; housekeeping and janitor work; electrical transmission line help; garage operation and parking work; hospital jobs such as porter, orderly and nurse's aide, laundry service, groundskeeping and gardening; road, sewer and water system maintenance work, and operation of trucks and construction equipment.

Application forms are available at the personnel office of each of the eight cooperators and the Alameda County offices of the State's Employment Development Department.

In Livermore, applications are available at City Hall, 2250 First St. (corner of N. Livermore Avenue), 447-2100; Pleasanton, the Civic Center, 200 Bernal Ave. (corner of Main Street), 846-3202.

San Ramon Health Center hours questioned

SAN RAMON — The Dublin - San Ramon Health Care Center may be cut back to a 12-hour day in an attempt to plug up a leaking budget.

Bitterly opposed by several Valley Memorial Hospital directors is a suggestion to make the center a 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. operation instead of keeping it open until 11 p.m. The year-old facility on Alcosta Boulevard offers doctors' services seven days a week, including X-ray, lab, limited emergency treatment and inhalation therapy.

The Health Care Center is operated as a satellite service of Valley Memorial Hospital. It has its own advisory board of local residents but Valley Memorial Hospital directors make the final decisions.

It opened to the public last February. VMH directors and planners knew the center would lose money in its first years of operation, and budgeted a $300,000 loss over a 30-month period.

But the center has already lost nearly that much after 13 months in business.

Looking at the figures another way, a $10,000-a-month average loss was predicted, while the center's average loss has actually been $16,000 a month, according to Bob Tollefson, VMH assistant administrator, who has been in charge of the center project.

Explaining the proposed cutback to eight VMH directors (Art Henry was absent), Tollefson said, "Originally, we thought we would provide a service by offering evening hours beyond the regular hours of any doctor's office."

"What we've found is, people are coming during regular office hours anyway. We get 80 per cent of our cases between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m."

Things are really quiet at the sparkling new facility between 9 and 11 p.m., with an average of one patient a night. And only six of those each month are emergencies, Tollefson's statistics show.

"We could save $3,000 a month just by closing during those two hours," the administrator concluded. He said the plan had the agreement of both the Health Care Center staff and advisory board.

Reaction was swift and definite from director Jack Bras of Pleasanton. "I think we have been led down the garden path with this center," he charged.

"I was on the building committee when this was planned. Originally, we were going to have a 5,000-square-foot facility. Then we were told it had to be 10,000 square feet."

"We were going to offer 24-hour service there. Cutting back on hours is completely contradictory to what we talked about."

"If we're going to be there, we damn well better be committed to it."

Director Ted Fairfield was similarly disillusioned at what he felt was the cynical, moneymaking attitude toward the center. He called the cutback "a band aid action" and wanted to know when the change in philosophy had come about that was making the administrators sacrifice service for monetary savings.

There's been no change in philosophy, an unfrustrated Tom Andrews responded.

The chief administrator said, "I sure as hell don't look at closing hours any more than I look at abandoning a piece of X-ray equipment which is not being used as a failure of the system."

"The center was designed to take care of the people as the people want and they don't especially want it open late in the evening. It's not our decision, folks. The patients are not using it."

Other directors were not thrown by the idea of shutting the center's doors two hours early. Robert Patterson said succinctly, "Regardless of our idealism, we only have so much money."

Chairperson Dagmar Fulton chimed in, "We went into this hoping we wouldn't lose too much money. Since they're not using those facilities during those hours, I don't think we can afford to keep it open."

When it came to a vote, directors Fulton, Patterson, James Merritt and Arthur Huddins were for shortening the hours. Balancing their four votes, Fairfield, Bras, Emily Schwarz and Joe Sladky were for postponing the decision. Fairfield suggested getting a full report on what other measures are being taken to save money at the center and also meeting with the advisory board.

The Family Health Care Center has fallen on hard times primarily because fewer patients than expected have been using it. The fact that there are tight restrictions on the kind of advertising the nonprofit group may do may limit the number of prospective patients reached.

But the new center is not the only agency to be running into that problem. Valley Memorial Hospital itself has achieved only about one-third of the surplus revenue it had budgeted for this year. The hospital is subsidizing the center out of its earnings and profits are also supposed to subsidize the planned new medical center in Pleasanton, which is scheduled to open in 1979.

For the first eight months of the 1974-75 fiscal year, surplus revenue over expenses came to $90,000 while $300,000 was budgeted.

The economic climate is being blamed for keeping people away from hospital when they have a choice. Hospitals all over the Bay Area are reportedly experiencing the same falling-off in income as Valley Memorial.

Ravenswood not open yet

LIVERMORE — Ravenswood, the Victorian estate south of this city which has been designated and funded by the state as a Point of Historical Interest, is not yet open to the public.

Presently, the house is occupied by a city employee to avert vandalism and to keep the curious off the grounds.

State funds, which will be used by the Livermore Area Recreation and Park District to turn the estate into picnic grounds and an historical site, are expected within six weeks.

In the meantime, the public is asked to be patient and not visit Ravenswood until restoration is completed.

Valley Deaths

Julia Fernandes

Julia Fernandes, 71, of Pleasanton died early Saturday morning at Valley Memorial Hospital in Livermore.

A native of Hawaii and longtime Valley resident, she is survived by her husband Anthony, of Pleasanton; two sons, Jerry McConlogue of Livermore and Harold D. McConlogue of Hayward; one daughter, Daisy Rivers of Livermore; two sisters, Mary Gregoris of Farmington, Cal. and Alice Long of Twain Heart, Cal. and; one brother, Ernie Perry of Hayward and seven grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Rosary services will be held Sunday at 7:30 p.m. at the Graham Hitch Mortuary Chapel. Funeral services will be held Monday at 10 a.m. at the same location. Interment will follow at St. Augustine's Cemetery in Pleasanton.

Spiritual bouquets are requested by the family. Friends may call at the Mortuary after 4 p.m. Sunday.

Mary Nicolay

Mary Elizabeth Nicolay, 86, of Livermore died in Pleasanton on Friday, March 28. Born December 27, 1888 in her grandfather's two story log cabin in Nortonville, Kansas, the daughter of Martha (nee) Rogers and James McNamara was reared in Soldier, Kansas.

She attended Manhattan State University in Manhattan, Kansas, where she received her B.S. in dietetics in 1914.

She married James Arthur Nicolay, who also graduated as a civil engineer from Manhattan State in 1915, and they had one daughter Mary Catherine Bachmann of Livermore.

Prior to moving to Livermore in 1957, they had lived in various areas of the United States and Canada.

She was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Livermore, the Clipper Club and Woman's Association Circle No. 3 of the same church and was also a member of the order of the Eastern Star, Bismarck, N.D., Chapter 11.

In addition to her daughter, she is survived by her son-in-law Carl J. Bachmann of Livermore, two granddaughters, Janet Lee Haddox of Colma and Nancy K. Bachmann of Belmont and a grandson-in-law Raymond M. Haddox also of Colma.

Eastern Star services will be held at 3 p.m. Tuesday, April 1st followed by funeral services by the Reverend William Nebo of the First Presbyterian Church, in the Chapel of Callaghan Mortuary, East Ave., Livermore, where friends may call after 9 a.m. Monday.

The family will receive friends from 7 to 9 p.m. Monday at the Callaghan Mortuary. Interment will be in Memory Gardens Cemetery Livermore. Contributions in her memory may be made to the Memorial Fund of the First Presbyterian Church in Livermore.

Alert officer nabs car theft suspects

LIVERMORE — Two young Oakland men were arrested early Friday morning when an observant reserve patrolman allegedly found them in a car stolen earlier in San Francisco.

Police say reserve officer Terry Platt was on patrol at 1:30 a.m. with regular officer John Balbach when Platt noted a black, 1974 Cadillac parked peculiarly in front of the downtown Sambo's Restaurant. Platt's suspicions paid off when a registration check listed the car as stolen.

Theodore A. Braggs, 18, and Ricky J. Parham, 19, were arrested after leaving Sambo's and driving off, according to police.

Braggs, the driver, had no identification and was being held pending further investigation. He told police the car had been loaned to him.

Police say the two were brought to headquarters in separate patrol cars and kept in separate cells, and that their stories differed substantially.

The car is registered to Dickson C. Buxton, 24 Preswick Ct., Novato.

Near shootout in Livermore

LIVERMORE — An off-duty Alameda County Sheriff chased three juveniles Thursday night, finally forcing them to the curb with his drawn revolver, after he thought they shot out his front room window.

Thomas G. Ziegler, 31, was sitting in his 2633 Pickfair Ln. home watching television when he heard what he thought was a shot and saw glass flying through his dining room.

Grabbing his gun and racing for his car, Ziegler chased the three youths he saw driving away from his home.

On Yorkshire Drive he pulled alongside their car, and pointing his revolver at them, forced them to the curb.

Livermore police, who were told it had been a shooting, tore to the scene, where a search of the suspects turned up three knives and, in the car, a metal, "professional-type" slingshot.

Police believe the trio fired a rock at Ziegler's window, but as yet attached no motive to the incident.

Livermore man robbed as he lays in hospital

LIVERMORE — Nearly $1,300 was stolen from Lewis A. Markley's 2375 Chestnut St. home while he lay in Veterans' Hospital earlier this week.

Markley told police he returned home to discover various vases, pairs of shoes, a watch and clock radio missing, in addition to a prize, black bear rug valued at $500.

Police believe the thieves pried their way through the front door.

Meanwhile, Dewain K. Cummings, 27, told police burglars broke into his 1612 Broadmoor Ct. home, rifling his apartment before making off with some $700 in money and jewelry.

Cummings returned to his home Sunday. The thieves apparently entered through a living room window.

In Pleasanton police claim a 1974, 500 cc Kawasaki motorcycle was stolen from Ronald P. Beck, 25, early Tuesday morning.

The metal-flake green bike with wind shield and crash bar was chained to his 3767 Vineyard Ave. apartment carport, but police believe thieves cut the lock with bolt cutters.

Neighbors reported a blue

Chevrolet station wagon parked in the carport near the motorcycle at the time of the theft.

Fashion drawing classes now offered locally

There's one form of art that's fun and that, at the same time, can be used commercially.

That's fashion drawing, the art of stylizing the human figure while paying careful attention to fashion details at the same time.

Low-cost training in fashion drawing is now available in evening classes at Dublin and Livermore high schools. Artist Lesley Donley will be teaching the courses, Monday nights, 7 to 10 p.m. in Livermore High (Room 405) beginning April 7 and 7 to 10 p.m. in Dublin High, Wednesday nights (Room B 15) beginning April 2. Both will be 10-week sessions.

Students must bring their own drawing materials and pay 50 cents towards the fee of a model who will be on hand for the classes. The course is open to high-school students and adults who have an interest in drawing.

Teacher Donley majored in art at Carnegie Tech University in Pittsburgh, Pa., and the Cleveland Institute of Art in Ohio. She worked for two and a half years at the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. drawing ads for the yellow pages of their directories. She also designed costumes for the Lakewood Little Theatre Children's School in Lakewood, Ohio.

She has been a member of the Livermore Art Association.

Of her new art course, she says, "The course will emphasize the stylization of the human figure and drawing the body with fluid, graceful lines. I'd like to work into some drawings in the symbolist style."

Signups are being accepted now for both the Dublin and Livermore sessions. There is a small registration fee. Further information may be obtained from the Livermore Adult Evening School at 447-6671 or Amador Valley Continuing Education, 462-1615.

Rutter asks that charges be waived

LIVERMORE — Judge John A. Lewis took under advisement Friday a motion for dismissal of charges against John Rutter, Dublin, charged with battery stemming from a June 18, 1974 incident.

Attorney Wayne Witchez argued for dismissal on grounds of civil compromise, claiming the case had been prejudiced in pre-trial proceedings.

A decision on the motion will be rendered at 1:30 p.m., Apr. 4, in Livermore Municipal Court.

Sunol waits on hiring plan

SUNOL — Action on a prospective affirmative action policy for the Sunol Glen School District was continued for further study with adoption of a policy scheduled for the April school board meeting.

Superintendent - Principal George Bury said Wednesday he and board members will study policies of surrounding districts such as Murray and Livermore.

"We have to adopt an affirmative action policy so that we can apply for Early Childhood Education funds," noted Bury.

"We want to make clear the point, though, that we want to hire on ability," Bury clarified.

A special district committee for the tax revenue increase measure, scheduled for the May 27 ballot, plans to put together a fact sheet by early April for voters in Sunol.

Prospective teacher after Maid of Pleasanton title

Charlene Laakso, who has set her sights on becoming a teacher, is the third young woman and first Dublin High School student to enter the Maid of Pleasanton Pageant.

The 18-year-old blue-eyed blonde is president of the Drama Club at Dublin and enjoys tennis, softball, camping and horseback riding. Miss Laakso teaches a Sunday School class of 4 and 5-year olds, belongs to the German Club and California Scholarship Federation and likes animals.

The 5-5, 115 pound Dublin

senior has been a resident of Pleasanton for three years.

All young women residing in the Pleasanton and Sunol area between the ages of 17 and 25 may participate in the Pageant by filling out an application form available at the Pleasanton Chamber of Commerce, 10 W. Neal St., before Thursday, April 3.

Eligibility rules ask that entrants be 17 by August 1 and not older than 25 by the same date, a resident of the Pleasanton or Sunol area, never married or have had a marriage annulled or have been a mother.

Egg-citing Easter Fair

Life in the eyes of children can be a fantasy of fun with the help of imaginative adults who can look at things their way once in a while.

The recent Children's Easter Fair at the Livermore Recreation Center was just such a dream come true, with storytelling, games, funky rock music by the Banana Splits, animated cartoons, a hunt for Easter eggs, an Easter bonnet parade, and life-size bunnies.

About 1,800 people flocked to the fair sponsored by the Toyland Chapter of the Children's Home Society to fund family welfare and counseling services. A large share of the $2,800 raised was taken at the Easter boutique for Mothers.

Mrs. Jane Callabresi, president of Toyland Chapter, and Mrs. Joan Dailey were co-chairman of the fair.

To look at life anew as a child — as an exciting adventure where anything is possible — isn't that what the season is all about?

Bargaining in the Casbah

Roy Kissin

EDITOR'S NOTE: Before leaving for the International Junior Cross Country Championships, held in Rabat, Morocco March 15 (where he finished eighth among 125 runners) Danville's Roy Kissin agreed to share his impressions of the trip with Times readers. His series of journal entries continues today and concludes Tuesday.

Saturday, the day before the 'big day,' was enjoyably spent roaming the Casbah dos Oudaias. The name means 'the mighty fortress' or ribat from which this city took its name.

A casbah, for those who may have been misled by a famous line from the movies, is simply a fortified place. There are hundreds of them in Morocco, large and small, but the Casbah des Oudaias is one of the most formidable. It was used as the main base for Moslem incursions into Spain.

From there, teammate John Roscoe and I wandered into the maze of lattice covered alleys called souks. The countless little windowless shops and stalls hold untold fascination for anyone interested in shopping — or just looking.

We were immediately set upon at the entrance by a well-dressed, young Moroccan. "Good afternoon," he said shaking my hand. "My name's Mohammed, you here for the Cross?" He examined my USA insignia while making running motions.

Before I could get a word in, he grabbed my thumb (yes my thumb) and pulled me off down the street, chattering all the while. "American, huh? You interested in brassware, rugs, embroidered shirts, leather?" I mused that this guy would make a fine used car salesman in America.

"This shop my father's, he said, stopping at last. "Here, try this."

I was handed a beautiful leather coat by one of the shopkeepers. I wanted, but didn't let on immediately. "No," I said, handing it back, "too expensive."

"Listen, said Mohammed, "This jacket 350 dirham ($90), because you are friend, student, for you, 300 dirham ($75)."

"I have only travelers checks," I said, "no Moroccan money."

"That's okay, I take anything. How about $70?"

"No way."

"What's your bottom price, absolute bottom?"

"$40."

The three shopkeepers murmured, "Look," Mohammed half-begged, "I give you this jacket $65, I make five dollars on it."

"I don't believe you."

"Okay — $55."

"Buddy," I laughed, "You just lost five bucks on the deal." I had to explain what a buck is.

The tone of the bargaining suddenly changed. Mohammed lowered his eyes glaring.

"$50," he said, quietly, deliberately. He was seething. "It's only worth $40 to me," I said, becoming uneasy.

"Come on Kissin," advised Roscoe from behind. I was relieved that he had followed. His voice grew more emphatic.

"Come on."

"Fifty dollars, fifty dollars" shouted Mohammed. I pushed the three shopkeepers blocking my exit.

"Okay, $48," he called after me. "Sorry."

The father broke off negotiations with a wave of his hand. Mohammed, disgruntled, followed, "American pig" he cried. "You no good, you bad."

John and I hurried away. A short time later I purchased the same coat for $38 in another store.

This is the nature of shopping Morocco. The endless haggling can be fun, but grows tiring fast. Competition between the parties is fierce. We returned to the hotel thinking that we would have our fill of competition the next day.

We found the hotel swamped with athletes. The staff was in a frenzy, unable to cope with the situation.

I spotted the incomparable Gaston Rocclants of Belgium. The 39-year-old Rocclants has been World Cross Country Champion four times since 1962 and a four-time Olympian.

My roommate, Don Clary, was seeking autographs. Rocclants handed him a personally autographed picture which listed all his impressive stats on the back. Don was ecstatic. I recalled my childhood and the prestige of a Willie Mays baseball card.

That night at dinner, Frank Shorter cautioned us: "Watch the start tomorrow, you guys. It'll come when you're least expecting it. Gaston Rocclants has won the senior race more than once simply by bolting just before the gun. The race starts then, they fire the gun afterwards. No false starts, no recall, no 'on your mark, get set, go' — nothing. They line up and go."

I went to sleep early that night with Frank's advice on my mind.

Napoli's wins rec 'c' crown

Napoli Liquors, playing fine defensive basketball in the second half, defeated Kavanagh Liquors, 43-39 for the Livemore recreation basketball C League championship.

The winners trailed at half-time, 22-21. They clamped down on Kavanagh after intermission however, limiting the opposition to 17 points the rest of the way.

In the D League, Ideal Drayage defeated Straw Hat Pizza, 48-43. Ideal held Straw Hat to just 13 points in the second half of that game.

For Napoli, Mike Fullmer and Herb Tootle led a balanced scoring attack with nine points apiece.

AV second as Arroyo ends

SAN LORENZO — The show, apparently, had to go on.

And, so, despite the death Friday of tournament director Veri Thornock (apparently of a heart attack), Amador and Ygnacio Valley High Schools met in the final game of the oft-delayed, rain-drenched, wind-blown Arroyo Easter Baseball Tournament yesterday.

After a moment of silence for Thornock, for many years the coach at Arroyo, the Dons lost a 2-1 classic to the Warriors.

While the outcome was not decided until the final inning, AV hurler Mark Larson provided a hint in the early going. Larson, who pitched three innings Thursday against San Ramon, had fired 58 pitches by the end of three innings and expended 116 for the game.

The toll on Larson's arm was not enough to give Warrior hitters a field day, however. YV reached the Don left hander for just six hits.

Trouble was, the Warriors 6-2 righthander, Steve Bowen stopped the Pleasanton club on a mere three safeties.

Ygnacio never trailed in the ballgame as they scored the first run during the top of the third inning.

After Bowen struck out, third baseman Joe Bellotti lined a single into left field and went to second on a passed ball. Two batters later, clean-up batter Craig Johnson grounded a single to left to score Bellotti.

In the fifth Amador scored despite getting the inning off on a sorry note.

Ed Bevilacqua led off with a single off the glove of YV shortstop Joe Garcia. This portion of the Dons rally was short-lived, however, as Ed was picked off via a catcher-first base man-shortstop-second baseman rundown.

Rich Hall then came up with a shot that made the play hurt all the more. The ex-basketball player slammed a triple to left center and turned it into a run, defiantly flattening catcher Dan McInnis and stomping on the plate with a passion, when the Warrior relay play was mishandled.

But the Warriors grabbed the championship with an eleventh hour rally in the seventh frame.

Bowen, who tossed just 89 pitches as opposed to Larson large total, was allowed to bat and drew a walk. Immediately coach Bob Johnson inserted Steve Norry, a fleet infielder, as a pinch runner.

Bellotti sacrificed him to second. Norry then reached third on a fielder's choice and scored on a shot off the leg of Larson that was just too hot for the weary Moundsman to handle.

Bowen, allowed to re-enter the game, set the Dons out on one hit, a single by Brett Boldrini, in the last half of the inning before getting Hall to sky out to Johnson, ending the game. Larson distinguished himself by fanning 10 Warrior hitters in the game, despite being tagged with the loss.

Ygnacio second baseman Jim Bryan, in addition to being a key to the rundown in the fifth, came up with a key play in the fourth.

Bryan dropped a soft fly ball, but kept his cool and recovered to throw out the Dons Ken Dalrymple at first base. Since Dave Krikorian followed with a walk, the Dons would have had a runner in scoring position if not for the play.

Dublin's Dan Harvey negotiates a water hazard during the high school steeplechase at yesterday's Diablo Valley College Relays.

Paula outruns 'em at DVC

Paula Ng of Livermore High School won two events and set two meet records to highlight the fifth annual Easter Relays track meet held Saturday at Diablo Valley College in Pleasanton Hill.

Ng won the girl's 100 in a very respectable 11.9 seconds, shattering the meet record by three tenths of a second. To complete her double victory, she then proceeded to win the long jump with a leap of 17 feet, 5 1/4 inches.

Ng was not the only local female trackster to do well. Lisa Bee of San Ramon out-matched everybody in the girl's discus with a throw of 97 feet, 5 inches, while Granada High's Kathy Honour won the 80 yard hurdles in 12.0 seconds. In addition, the Granada girls also won the mile relay race.

In the boy's high school events, Dan Harvey of Dublin High won the unfamiliar but grueling steeplechase, setting a meet record in the process. He was followed closely in second by Dave Tutino of Monte Vista and in fourth by Bruce Rogers of Foothill.

Chris Holmer of San Ramon and Rich Harter of Granada fared well in the pole vault, finishing second and third respectively.

Chabot College trackmen were impressive in the Junior College races. The Gladiators placed first in four events. Tom Walker shattered the meet javelin record by 14 feet with a hurl of 197 feet, 11 inches. But it was in the relay events where Chabot really dominated, winning three: the distance medley, 880, and 440. Chabot in addition took second in the sprint medley relay.

The meet progressed smoothly, except for the high school 100 yard dash. The race was so close that judges could not agree on the order of the first four finishers. One of those four was Dan King of Granada. Meet directors will review films of the race and declare a winner as soon as possible.

Gael loss at MV

IRVINGTON — Running into a very tough Irvington High squad, the Dublin Gaels dropped an 8 - 3 decision to the Vikings in the semi-finals of the Mission Valley Athletic League Easter Tournament.

"Having to wait three hours and the fact that we haven't practiced in three weeks led to our defeat," said Dublin coach Tom Mullican, "and playing on their home field didn't help us either."

Irvington pitcher Tim Denny didn't help the Gaels either as he held them to three runs on only six hits. Denny was cruising along with a one hit after five innings but some dormant Dublin bats finally woke up and produced three runs in the last two frames.

The Vikings tallied at least one run in each inning, greatly attributed to the porous Dublin defense which booted the ball away six different times. Shortstop Steve Grant, who pitched a no-hitter on Wednesday against Newark High, committed four miscues on what was a long afternoon.

sports

Mike Zampa, editor

Dave Anderson tallied the first Dublin run when he walked with one out in the sixth. Dave Woy advanced him to second on a single to right field and Anderson came around when Jim McCuaig belted a single to center, pushing Woy to third base.

Robin Sherwood extinguished the Gaels rally when he went down on strikes.

Dublin looked like it was going to pull off the impossible when the first four batters in the seventh inning reached base safely. Jim Hunter led off the seventh with a walk and went to second when Sean Mays singled to right.

Jerry Puertas loaded the bases with a single to right and John Prieto chasing Hunter and Mays home. Anderson popped to the shortstop and Matt Billy grounded out to first base to put all the Gaels hopes on the shoulders of Grant.

Grant worked Denny for a walk but McCuaig lofted a long fly to Viking centerfielder Randy Finney which he grasped for the final out.

Craig Charipotti suited the loss for the Gaels as he was bombed for four runs in two and two-thirds innings of work. Charipotti's inability to get a call from the umpire led to his demise, especially in the third frame when, after apparently fanning the Vikings Mike Huk, he served up a fastball which Huk nailed to left field driving in two runs and chasing Charipotti from the mound.

The Gaels will travel to Irvington next Saturday for a 12:30 p.m. third place game.

Mat burst wins in 8th

IRVINGTON — It took them nearly five hours to do so, but the Granada Matadors finally pulled out a wild 14-9 victory over the Mission San Jose Warriors in the Mission Valley Athletic League Easter Tournament yesterday on the Irvington High diamond.

Six pitching changes, 23 runs, and 24 hits led to the extremely long game.

The Matadors exploded for six runs in the first inning and after two held an 8 - 1 lead. The feisty Warriors plugged away at the Granada lead and finally tied it up at 9 - 9 in regulation play.

The Mats put together a five-run eighth inning to finally take control of the game.

Keith Teixeira and eventual winning pitcher Tim Duke led off for the Matadors with singles. Kelly Conrad laid down a perfect bunt and when Warrior catcher Bob Del Rio tried to nail Conrad at first Teixeira scooted in from second base.

Second baseman Dave Spencer drilled a single to center, plating Duke. Both Spencer and Conrad moved up a base on a double steal and Dave O'Brian launched a triple to left field for two more Granada runs.

O'Brian himself scored when Warrior shortstop Glen Pellerin booted a Jay Strickland grounder.

Duke, after walking Steve Kline set down Pellerin, Del Rio, and Rob Adamson to seal the Mats victory.

Spencer enjoyed a fine day at the plate, going 4-for-6. The feisty Matador lashed four singles and scored three times on the afternoon.

O'Brian also had a productive day with a pair of triples and a pair of walks in his six trips to the plate. Like Spencer, O'Brian scored three times.

Starting pitcher Steve Stone highlighted the Granada first with booming triple that drove in two runs. In the second inning, Stone plated two more with a sharp single to right field.

Teixeira was another offensive hero with a pair of clutch singles in the sixth and eighth innings, both in which he scored the initial run.

The Mats win over the Warriors completed their run in the MVAL invite with a 2 - 1 record.

An Editorial

It has yet to achieve the commercial impact of Christmas, and perhaps that is what makes this one observance so special. There are those who contend that Easter Sunday is the most religious of the Christian world's rites. This year, and in this particular world, it might also be our greatest hope.

The promise of resurrection is as meaningful today as the confidence that all people, everywhere, must hold in a better tomorrow. For much of this troubled globe, there is little left but hope. For these United States, our need is for something even greater... faith.

If we believe in a supreme being, then we must also accept that He has chosen to test us all in a very special way, in this particular decade. Famine destroys whole tribes and villages in India and Africa. Food production falls well short of minimal needs in Russia and China. The post-war emergence has been slow and troubled throughout Europe. Much of Asia and the Arab world is shattered by almost 20 years of war, or the threat of war.

Once again, for reasons few of us begin to understand, this one nation has been spared much of that strife. But we are tested in ways that are as dear to us as the food denied or the lives lost in other lands. Here it is our cherished freedoms, our right to believe, to trust, to work and to function that are threatened. Our creator could not have chosen a more sensitive area in which to test the American will.

"We hold these things dear." And yes, we consider them our inalienable right. There was never any reason to expect otherwise. Until a president fell, along with a stock market, and the value of our precious dollar. Fallen too are the standards that served us well throughout 200 years. The values of yesteryear are just that, now changed, challenged or forgotten. For some, even those broad stripes and bright stars are no longer proof that we are a land of the free.

And so, at long last, it would seem as though even these United States of America are to be tested. The famine, the war, the economic plight of other lands are not just "over there." For once, we must work to protect our way of life. Even in this land of plenty, it is commanded that we make sacrifices. The envy of the whole world, we are suddenly made to carry our cross. Perhaps at long last, we might better understand what life, and suffering and dying are all about. And therefore we might know the need to rise up again.

On Easter Sunday, in the year nineteen hundred and seventy five, we have no other option except to believe in the promise of a better tomorrow, from some one who just might have a better idea.

An election critique

Elsewhere on this page there appears a letter from a Dublin resident who challenges the valley's press in their handling of the 15th Assembly District elections. While Pegi Stosick is a trifle off target in several of her comments, still she provides fresh food for thought on the total question of "how to cover those elections."

Noting that her concern is directed primarily at "the straight news pages... not the editorial pages," Ms. Stosick goes on to charge that "the front page reporting in all three newspapers tended to be highly subjective. The candidate a paper endorsed received columns of publicity while his opponent was lucky to have his name mentioned." Any review of the valley's press will reject the latter contention, but there is room for argument over that "highly subjective" critique. This is one editor prepared to admit that all newspapers, television news programs and even radio station news casters, are forever "subjective" in their approach... if only because their approach to a story, the decision to assign a reporter or an expensive TV camera, is a commitment by that editor to "give this story top coverage." That, in our opinion, is a matter of some journalistic subjectivity.

The Times would like also to plead its own case in Ms. Stosick's suggestion that "It would be desirable to run a front page interview with each of the candidates..." If she was indeed reading us, then she must be aware that this newspaper gave front-page coverage of equal positioning and importance to ten of those Assembly candidates... the other five declining to respond to our invitation for a personal interview. All of the "major" candidates did respond, however. We would also challenge the argument that "newspapers remain uncommitted to any candidate until the final week of the campaign." After all, if WE know who is going to earn our endorsement, that information should be shared with the readers and the candidates as soon as possible, it would seem. On this score we feel both The Independent and The Times deserve credit, for declaring their choice early in both the primary and final election tests.

The Stosick missive has already prompted some "debate" as you can see. It's worth reading, and worthy also of your own input on "covering the elections."

A Dublinite views the press

Editor, The Times:

Now that the emotions aroused by the recent special election to fill the 15th Assembly seat have had a chance to cool down and our new assemblyman, Floyd Mori, has taken his oath of office in Sacramento, I would like to discuss one aspect of the recent election that troubled me greatly. That is, the unsatisfactory newspaper coverage of the campaign and the three candidates.

First, let me state that I am writing this only for myself, as a voter who wishes to cast an informed ballot based on knowledge of the candidates. I am not active in party politics, nor have I actively campaigned for any candidate nor made contributions to any campaign.

I receive all three of the newspapers published in the valley, which was fortunate during the recent campaign, as no single paper informed the voter fully. Indeed, it was often hard to realize that they were covering the same campaign events. My concern is the contents of the straight news pages of the papers, not the editorial pages, the opinion pages, or the by-lined columns done by various reporters and editors for their respective papers. The latter are the appropriate places for papers to express their opinions and preferences.

The front page reporting in all three newspapers tended to be highly subjective. The candidate a paper endorsed received columns of publicity while his opponent was lucky to have his name mentioned in that paper. Some of what appeared on the front page did not even qualify as news, while genuine news stories, such as face-to-face debates drew little or no coverage. I felt the Herald and News was the most objective of the three newspapers, but even they left much to be desired; for instance their decision to call a moratorium on campaign coverage just as their endorsed candidate mailed a final, controversial piece of campaign literature. Also, I applaud the decision of the Independent to present the majority of their campaign coverage on the inside pages under the by-lines of the editor and reporters since it was devoted almost exclusively to coverage of their endorsed candidate.

What I would like to see in future election coverage approaching the calibre of The Christian Science Monitor, generally regarded as the most reliable newspaper in the country. The front page should be as free of editorial content and pressure as possible... It would also be desirable to run a front page interview with each of the candidates...

Further, I would suggest that newspapers remain uncommitted to any candidate until the final week of a campaign to remove another impediment to fair and full coverage.

From my own observation I do not believe that people pay more than scant attention to campaign literature mailings. Therefore role of providing the voter with information they can trust and act upon rests squarely with the newspapers.

X rated movies

Editor, The Times:

(Copy of letter sent to owners and managers of Amador Valley Theater.)

Once again the City of Pleasanton is being subjected to "trashy" movies.

If I understood correctly the new owners and managers informed the public, via the Pleasanton Times, that only good quality films would be shown at this theater.

I have patronized this theater on a few occasions and the attendance is quite low which I believe is due to the fact that the films shown are not the currently released movies that the average family is interested in seeing. People are interested in seeing current films, not old, outdated films. To see current films one must travel to the Dublin Cinema. If people are willing to go to Dublin I am sure they would patronize a local theater if the more popular and current films were shown. I am sure that current films shown would increase the attendance rather than showing the "X" rated films.

However, for most of us here, the highlight of Walt's career as a scuba diver was when he disguised himself as the Black Whale of San Ramon and splashed majestically (and spectacularly) into a local swimming pool.

The pictures were slightly amazing as Walt is a large man, constantly battling his recalcitrant waistline with crash diets (of which he has a motherload of stories) and hot steam baths. There he was, in all his glory, wearing a black wet suit and appurtenances with all the mechanical doodads that make scuba divers unfit for life on dry land. His arms were spread wide and our photographer captured the pose for posterity as Walt slowly toppled into the water like one of those newly discovered pterodactyls coming to rest for the last time.

The photographer, unfortunately, had to go home for a change of clothes after the unexpectedly large splash (some tsunamis have been smaller) inundated him completely.

One of Walt's more endearing traits is his unabashed male chauvinist piggery. Occasionally, when things are dull, he will toss out a blatantly anti-feminist remark in the hearing of Pat Kennedy, Pat Widder or Karel Kramer, and it's remarkable how the office livens up.

The fact that none of the disputants could ever possibly be shaken from their by now iron-hard positions doesn't cool the vehemence of the debate one bit.

And remarkably all remain friends and no bitterness is held over until the next argument.

(Well, maybe a little. Pat Kennedy presented Walt with a marzipan pig for Christmas — unfortunately for Pat's intended insult, Walt displayed it proudly to all comers.)

However, one gift that Uncle Walt didn't show off quite so proudly was the Playboy foldout that he discovered one morning. Not that Walt is upset about Playboy foldouts — no, Walt has as fine an appreciation for good looking women as the rest of the male world — but this was placed in a sensitive location

Some person or persons unknown slipped into the office in the dark of night and removed the picture of Walt's wife Skeeter (who gets more ink in this Valley than Betty Ford) and replaced it with the aforementioned Playboy foldout.

After a suitable silence, Walt commented that it reminded him of a story, with which he promptly regaled us.

But some stories that Walt tells are more than just amusing. His series on the complex complications at the Sunol Valley Golf Course won him a nomination for the Pulitzer Prize.

Some Valley journalists (well, actually one in particular and WE all know who he is) have pooh-poohed the nomination, claiming anyone could have gotten it.

Are the grapes sour in Livermore? How many Pulitzer Prize nominations have been received by the Livermore branch of the Hayward Daily Review?

There is one award that a member of that staff did receive, though. One Illinois veteran received the award for the longest lead ever (96 words) before he came west. Walt of course is too gentlemanly to indulge in such charges and countercharges but my limited experience, which he is not shy about telling me about, allows such low behavior me.

But the classic Walt Hecox story took place at a party thrown for Ray Gibson, who now works near Chicago. Walt was sipping some wheat squeezings when two reporters cornered him. "You have a bad habit, Walt" they said.

With his typical flair for verbal theatrics, Walt replied "What?"

"Almost anything anyone does" they said, almost in chorus, "reminds you of a story."

Walt laughed, took another sip of his drink. "You know" he said "that reminds me of a story..."

The week in retrospect

Smoking on campus

Time was when you could count the number of high school students who smoked on fingers two.

We're sad to say that day passed some 15 years ago or more.

Across the boulevard from the hallowed halls of old Hayward High School their existed an infamous little den called "Farmers Inn." All users of the breath-inhibiting weed could be found there. For a "non-regular" to peek in the door was to invite a string of epithets and an Atomic-bomb size cloud of smoke in the face.

The "smoking room" has long since come out of the inner sanctum into the smoggy daylight.

Not only are a far greater percentage of students smoking but they're doing so at a much earlier age. A 12 or 13-year old casually drawing on something from "Marlboro country" is not an uncommon sight.

Now students are asking that certain areas be set aside on their campuses for smoking. Their is a bill in the Assembly that, if passed, would give school districts in the State the final word on whether or not to allow smoking on campus.

Thus, if students in the Amador Valley Joint Union High School District or Livermore Valley Joint Unified want such designated areas at their respective high school campuses, they're going to have to do some pretty persuasive talking.

Debbie Bridgman, news editor for the student paper at Amador Valley High School, noted recently that students from Amador, Foothill, Dublin and Valley have met with Superintendent Bruce Newlin and Neil Sweeney to express their views on the extent of the problem. She notes that Dublin High representatives believe that if smoking was allowed on their school campus, students would not have to go off campus to smoke "and the residential areas around Dublin High would have fewer students loitering on their properties."

Miss Bridgman and student body president Art Brannan don't feel that smoking is that big a problem at Amador...but add that if other schools in the Bay Area were allowed to smoke on campus Amador should be included in the "privileges." They also believe that students would be less inclined to use the restrooms for smoking lounges, and they might be kept cleaner.

We strongly agree with those students who say the sight of fellow students standing around in front of the school or sitting on the curb and smoking doesn't give the school a favorable image.

The high school board has discussed the question. Our impression was that they were not favorably disposed unless they can be given a guarantee that students will make a complete effort to police such an area...in tandem with the administration.

Our concern is that control of such an area could become lax with the net result of more things than standard brand cigarettes being consumed.

On the other hand, we believe students in the Amador district would take better to the responsibility than their peers at city high schools. Though this writer is a non-smoker and probably holds the typical over-30 attitude that schools are for learning first, last and always, it is easily understandable why the question must be addressed.

We believe the Amador and Livermore boards must now face the issue, in light of the legislation probably passing, and formulate a stand.

But please remember gentlemen and ladies, you are dealing with a more mature group of young people than 10 or 15 years ago.

Pleasanton is 'official'

Pleasanton is now an official Bicentennial city. The designation of "National Bicentennial Community" by the federal agency coordinating plans for the nation's 200th birthday was announced this week. Pleasanton is the second city in Alameda County to be so honored, according to Ken Mercer, chairman of the local effort.

The designation "gives us further incentive to work toward the staging of those projects and programs that will be part of Pleasanton's participation in our nation's birthday," in Mercer's words. It also allows Pleasanton to make use of the official emblem of the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration, a copy of which appears here, for the first "official" time.

Round the town

How bad is the economic slump? Not so bad that it's keeping folks from enjoying what they can find of the good life.

The little woman and I planned a quickie weekend at Carmel... our wedding anniversary. For once we were planning ahead... phoned our favorite Carmel hideaway three weeks ahead.

"Sorry," the female voice at the other end said, not sounding sorry at all. "We're booked up every weekend through April."

A big convention on the coast, perhaps? "No, it's just that as soon as the good weather breaks, people start making reservations like mad, from all over the country."

Some folks will get away from it all, by not going very far from home. Two swinging golf tournaments on tap at the west end of the valley. The "George Spiliotopoulos Invitational Tourney" is set for May 2 at Sunol. The invites are out, the responses look good. A college scholarship fund profits from the bash. If you aren't so bashed that you're able to score a hole in one, Ernie Ivaldi will give the happy slugger a 1975 Datsun. Which proves that the economic slump has not really wiped out the Ivaldi family, not quite.

Hap's Restaurant has a little golf fest planned for April 14. At Castlewood. About $35 per, includes everything. The object? "Just to have a good time."

The travel people say ships are really in, this season. Something to do with "really getting away from it all." Once aboard ship, the cares of the land-based world must immediately disembark. It's instant vacation, take my word for it.

We helped launch the "Spirit of London" a couple years back. Two days and two nights off the coast of Mexico. The only way to go. As good as a full week's vacation, under any normal plan by land or air. The now-generation can't wait to get there, wherever. Rush to the airport, barrel through the terminal thing, jet to the scene, then the terminal again, finally collapse on the beach at Waikiki. Exhausted. Takes 36 hours to find your stomach.

Ship travel gives you that sense of "being underway" the moment you step on board, smell the good salt air, dodge the sea gulls. It's another world, baby. Instant escape.

Those cruise rates sound a trifle high to the motel and jet crowd. But they're overlooking all those $$$ extras... at the terminal, taxis or parking costs, getting in and out of the hotel or resort. Then breaking away for a diversion at mid-week.

Once on board ship, that's about it. No where else to go, nothing else to buy, especially if you can keep the little woman out of the "duty free shop" on board those foreign liners. Some very good buys however, even from a man's viewpoint.

Tipping is confined to one big belt at the end of the journey. A couple of bucks to the porter, three or four to the waiter at your table... same guy throughout the journey. It's not like throwing dollars at strangers, for favors unknown or uncertain. You pay for a pleasant voyage, nothing more, nothing less.

Don't be scared off by those promo pictures of the formal dining room. If you're travelling first class on the big liner, then you might want to dress accordingly. Gives the little woman a chance to show off last year's dress, to folks who never saw her before, you hope. But for most cruises the dress is as casual as a day on the beach, or a stroll down the boardwalk on a bright, breezy day.

Two things to always take along on any ocean cruise... sun tan oil and a warm sweater. Both kinds of weather can be expected, sometimes with an hourly switch. It's one of the great blessings of ship travel. Never a dull moment. Watch out for the waistline... all that brisk air builds big appetites! But then again, all that walking on deck, shuffle board etc. will take it off again. Sensibly it's nature's seaborne balance.

They have cruises conditioned to your age, and your tastes. Guy Lombardo fan? Check your agent for the "1940's cruise." Prefer to swing with Sinatra? There's a Frankie funky tour too, somewhere on the season's roster. Or you can just leave it all to nature. The Inside Passage to Alaska. Who needs Sinatra? Just watch the icebergs go by. The silence can be deafening, they say.

Sure, it's Uncle Sam's tax time. And the kid's summer job is as uncertain as the old man's next pay boost. Stocks are staggering. Asia is shaking. But there is that tax rebate coming, or so they say. Supposed to spend it. Keeps the economy's corpuscles moving. So go blow the bundle on an ocean cruise, that's what I say.

North to Alaska, about ten days round trip. Or south to the Panama Canal, on through to the Caribbean, if you have the time, and the loot. But even the five-day quickie cruise can do wonders. Makes you feel like Captain Hornblower, up on the foc'sle, with the wind and the rain in your hair, and Maureen O'Hara at your side. (Transpore Charles Laughton, in the case of female readers.)

"A vast there, ye budgetary scoundrels! Belay those blues! Heave to the woes of the world. I am captain of my ship, and all the world as far as the eye can see. And let no man come within range of my guns, or set foot on my ulcered stomach... at least not until the journey is ended, and I must return to land, and the awful reality of things terra, but never very firma."

With any luck at all, the whole blessed thing will sink on your last day out, leaving you without a care in the world... at least none that a very large sponge wouldn't cure.

by John Edmonds

Kallam's commentary

Uncle Walt is taking a few days off, leaving this young man (as he would phrase it) to try to fill the void on the editorial page.

Well, perhaps I can fill the space in the paper but Walt Hecox, our managing editor, city editor, news editor, columnist, raconteur extraordinaire and all around father figure, would be impossible to replace.

Aside from his multifarious and somewhat bewildering array of duties, Walt is far and away the best storyteller on the staff. And that doesn't just mean the stories that go in Sound and Fury three times a week.

Walt has a story for every occasion it seems, and almost any chance remark in the newsroom can suddenly give birth to a rambling, but vastly entertaining tale about the good old days on the Call Bulletin or the good new days down in Puerto Vallarta.

Walter also has a little trouble adjusting to the fancy new computer systems, as do we all, but he tends to be a lot more vocal about it. Come to think of it, Walt tends to be a little more vocal about almost everything than most other people.

All of us has developed a passing acquaintance with the jargon of scuba diving, one of Walt's passions, over the last two years.

- For Sunday, March 30, 1975
- ARIES (March 21-April 19) One you need help from will come through, but you'll have to gain her confidence first. Be patient. Move slowly.
- TAURUS (April 20-May 20) An old friend has some sage advice for you. You'll discover his wisdom after you discuss what's been troubling you.
- GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Make haste slowly. The goal you hope is within reach, but it can only be attained a step at a time.
- CANCER (June 21-July 22) You'll be getting some pleasant news from one you're quite fond of, but who now lives at a considerable distance.
- LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Latch on to an idea you'll get today. It has the solution to a problem you thought would take a long time to solve.
- VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You'll be a bit restless today. A short trip would do you a world of good. Don't drag it out or stay overnight.
- LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A source for expanding your income will be presented to you. It won't make you rich, but it could bring a few extra shekels.
- SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You need some form of social outlet today. If nothing's cooking, drum something up. Throw a come-as-you-are party.
- SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You'll be surprised by the candid remarks of someone whose confidence you didn't think you enjoyed so intimately.
- CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You're more comfortable today dealing with small groups. Limit your get-together to a few close pals.
- AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're going to realize a modest return today from something you do on your own initiative. Pride of accomplishment will exceed profit.
- PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your words carry considerable weight today. One you think you have little influence on will follow your instruction to a "T."

High school completion certificates available now

If you are one of the more than one million Californians 19 years of age or older who has not completed high school, a certificate of completion is yours for the taking.

All you have to do is pass the General Educational Development (GED) test, an exam based on high school subject matter.

Director Harry Bigelow says the certificate is widely regarded as the equivalent of a high school diploma when applying for a job, obtaining a promotion or seeking college entrance.

Only 1,900 adults throughout the state have applied for the certificate since the program started January 1, said Bigelow, blaming the lack of public knowledge of its availability for the small number of applicants.

To be eligible for a state certificate, an applicant must be a California resident or serviceman stationed in California and 18 years of age or older.

The GED program consists of a battery of five tests which requires at least six hours of testing in two exam sessions. The five areas tested are social studies, grammar and composition, science, literature, and mathematics. Amador High School in Pleasanton offers a night class in preparation for the GED test beginning April 1. Registration for the 7-10 p.m. Tuesday class is on March 31 in room E-1 and costs $4 per person.

Applicants must fill out an application form at a GED testing center, sign it in the presence of a testing official and mail it to the Bureau of School Approvals, 721 Capitol Mall, Sacramento 95814.

After taking the exam, applicants should request the testing center to send a certified copy of the test scores to the Bureau. The applicant must send an $8 money order to the Bureau payable to the California State Department of Education.

Those tested in the military may have their scores sent to the Bureau by writing to DANTES, the custodian of test results of armed services personnel at 2318 Park St., Madison, Wisconsin 53613. Amador High School offers the GED test on April 15, 16 and 17 p.m. at a cost of $5 per person in room E-2. For further information, call Lew Parker at 846-2818.

Immunization clinic set for April 3

The Contra Costa County Health Department will sponsor a free immunization clinic on April 3 from 3 to 6 p.m. at the Family Health Center at 9260 Alcosta Blvd. in San Ramon.

Immunization against polio, diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus and measles will be offered. Smallpox vaccination, though no longer routinely recommended, is available for those who need it under special circumstances.

German Measles vaccine will be administered for children aged 1 to 12. Women over age 12 are advised to consult their doctor regarding the need for German Measles vaccine.

Children 13 years old and under must be accompanied by a parent or legal guardian. Those persons 14 to 17 years of age may be either accompanied by a parent or guardian, or bring written consent.

For further information, call the Health Department office in Pleasanton at 937-4100, ext. 201.

Two more BART feeder lines set

PLEASANTON — Two more BART feeder bus stops may be added along Valley Avenue.

The city council, however, delayed taking action on those stops until they receive a report from AC Transit showing the need for the additional stops, which would be located at Valley and Greenwood and Valley and Hopyard or Blackbird.

Installation of a concrete slab at each of the stops would be necessary. Those slabs would cost the city about $600 each.

At Monday night's council meeting, Councilman Bob Philcox also asked the staff to investigate either adding a stop or moving the downtown stop from its present location at Santa Rita Road and Stanley Boulevard to make the system more convenient for the city's senior citizens.

Assistant to the City Manager Jim Walker said a completed report on the possible additional bus stops should be ready for the council's review at its April 14 meeting.

LEGAL NOTICE

DEPARTMENT OF HOUSING AND COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT OF THE CITY OF PLEASANTON, COUNTY OF ALAMEDA, STATE OF CALIFORNIA, NOTICE OF INTENT TO FILE A NEGATIVE DECLARATION PROJECT DESIGNATION: UP-75-7

March 30, 1975
In accordance with the provisions set forth in Resolution No. 75-22 (Environmental Impact Guidelines and Procedures), adopted by the City Council of the City of Pleasanton on January 27, 1975, Conditional Use Permit application UP-75-7, an application to establish and operate a sales office in a model home complex, has been determined to require a negative declaration.

The project consists of establishing and operating a sales office in the garage of a model home at 584 Tawny Drive, Pleasanton, within a model home complex located at 560-592 Tawny Drive. It is the opinion of the Director of Housing and Community Development that this project would not create, to a significant degree, any of the effects enumerated in Resolution No. 75-22, which indicate that the environment may be harmed. The temporary use of this site for sales purposes would attract potential homebuyers, with resultant traffic and noise, to this partially developed tract. However, the impact upon the predominantly undeveloped residential area would not be significant, and since the use would be temporary, even the minor impact would not be of continuing duration.

For more information on this case, contact the Department of Housing and Community Development, 200 Bernal Avenue, Pleasanton, CA 94566, Telephone 846-3202. Unless any written appeals of this case are received by this department within ten (10) days of the above date of publication of this notice in the Pleasanton Times, whichever is later, this decision will become effective.

DEPARTMENT OF HOUSING AND COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT OF THE CITY OF PLEASANTON, COUNTY OF ALAMEDA, STATE OF CALIFORNIA, NOTICE OF INTENT TO FILE A NEGATIVE DECLARATION PROJECT DESIGNATION: Z-75-41

March 30, 1975
In accordance with the provisions set forth in Resolution No. 75-22 (Environmental Impact Guidelines and Procedures), adopted by the City Council of the City of Pleasanton on January 27, 1975, Zoning Application Z-75-41, an application to expand existing medical-dental complex, has been determined to require a negative declaration.

The project consists of the construction of Phase VII and Phase VIII of the Amador Medical Park complex at Cedarwood Lane and Black Avenue. The approximately 0.8 acre site is bounded to the west by the existing Amador Medical Park, to the south by Amador Valley Joint Union High School, and to the east and north by vacant lands. Three buildings would be constructed, approximately 3,354 square feet, 2,958 square feet and 1,421 square feet in size, respectively, to house medical and dental offices. Access would be provided by the continuation of a private street presently intersecting Cedarwood Lane, and serving the complex; parking spaces would be provided for 39 cars.

It is the opinion of the Director of Housing and Community Development that this project would not create, to a significant degree, any of the effects enumerated in Resolution No. 75-22, which indicate that the environment may be harmed. As an addition to the existing complex, the use to which this site would be put is compatible with the surrounding uses and is also consistent with the Pleasanton General Plan. The additional traffic generated on the roads currently serving the complex would be minor.

For more information on this case, contact the Department of Housing and Community Development, 200 Bernal Avenue, Pleasanton, CA 94566, Telephone 846-3202. Unless any written appeals of this case are received by this department within ten (10) days of the above date of publication of this notice in the Pleasanton Times, whichever is later, this decision will become effective.

NOTICE OF INTENT TO PREPARE AN ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT REPORT
PROJECT DESIGNATION:
RZ-75-4
March 30, 1975

In accordance with the provisions
set forth in Resolution No. 75-22
(Environmental Impact Guidelines and Procedures), adopted by the City of Pleasanton on January 27, 1975, rezoning application RZ-75-4 has been determined to require an environmental impact report.
The proposed rezoning involves the Willow West properties, assessor's map 941, page 700, parcel 1-11 and assessor's map 946, page 3215, parcel 1-12, approximately 32.2 acres located between Hopwood Road and the Southern Pacific Railroad right-of-way opposite the intersection of Stoneridge Drive and Hopwood Road. The area bounded by the Arroyo Mocho, Tassajara Creek and the Southern Pacific Railroad right-of-way would be rezoned from Industrial Park and General Industrial uses to Limited Industrial uses. That land contiguous to Hopwood Road would be zoned from north to south, commercial freeway (43.5 acres), office (12 acres), and limited industrial. The remaining 203 acres now zoned for primarily agricultural use would be zoned for general industrial uses.
It is the opinion of the Director of Housing and Community Development that this project might create, to a significant degree, environmental effects enumerated in Resolution No. 75-22 which indicate that the environment may be harmful. The present use of the entire site is for agriculture. These lands are classed as prime or potentially prime agricultural lands by the State of California and are lands of "potential critical concern." However, these lands have been generally planned for the uses asked for in this application.
It is the finding of the Director that the rezoning of these prime agricultural lands has the potential to curtail the range of future uses of the environment and could open the way to development which could lead to the loss of open space to the substantial detrimental effect on the air quality of this valley and on ambient noise levels for adjoining residential areas.
For more information on this case, contact the Department of Housing and Community Development, 200 Bernal Avenue, Pleasanton,
California 94566, telephone 846-3202.

Unless any written appeals of this case are received by this department within ten (10) days of the above date or publication of this notice in the Pleasanton Times,
whichever is later, this decision will become effective.

NOTICE OF INTENT TO FILE A NEGATIVE DECLARATION
PROJECT DESIGNATION: RZ-75-37
March 30, 1975

In accordance with the provisions
set forth in Resolution No. 75-22
(Environmental Impact Guidelines and Procedures), adopted by the City Council of the City of Pleasanton on January 27, 1975, zoning application RZ-75-37, an application to construct a retail - commercial building at 148 Ray Street, has been determined to require a negative declaration.
The project consists of the construction of an approximately 9700 square foot retail - commercial building to house the Koopman Linoleum Company and other businesses at 148 Ray Street. The project would provide off - street parking on the west side of the building for twenty-one (21) cars, with access to the south side of Ray Street approximately ninety (90) feet east of the intersection of Walnut Drive and Ray Street.
It is the opinion of the Director of Housing and Community Development that this project would not create to a significant degree, any of the effects enumerated in Resolution No. 75-22 which indicate that the environment may be harmful. The proposed use could be expected to increase the present traffic on Ray Street with a resultant increase in the ambient noise levels of adjacent residential areas, but not to a degree unusual on a street through a commercial district. The project proposed to place its parking lot within approximately five (5) feet of the Kottinger Barn, a structure designated as a possible historical monument; however, no damage will be done to the structure and it will be screened by existing trees. The project is consistent with the General Plan and is subject to Design Review, thereby mitigating any adverse aesthetic effects.
For more information on this
case, contact the Department of Housing and Community Development, 200 Bernal Avenue, Pleasanton,
California 94566, telephone 846-3202.

Unless any written appeals of this
case are received by this department within ten (10) days of the above date of publication of this notice in the Pleasanton Times,
whichever is later, this decision will
become effective.
